

Databases

Hi Again! Here I am sitting at a computer in the library about to look for a journal article. Did you know that the library has over 50 online databases that give you online access to all kinds of valuable resources? You can see a list and descriptions of all our databases right here on the library home page.

In these databases you will find magazine, journal, and newspaper articles on every topic imaginable. You will also find encyclopedia articles, biographies, facts, figures, statistics, images, reprints of primary documents, and much more. Just the kind of resources your professors want you to use when writing a research paper or essay.

And even if you can't get to the library you can still do your research. As long as you're a Cerritos college student you can access these databases from off campus by logging into MyLibrary from the library home page. Simply follow the directions on the screen.

Please take some time to explore all our wonderful databases. If you need help figuring out which one to use or how to search for information on a particular topic, just ask a librarian!

